Treasurers report was read and accepted as read.

Safety - Non certified members cannot fly with out help.

Thanks to all the helpers in the field repairs. The head maintenance guy didn't like our repair job.

The Port said that we may be able to fly jets further into the fire restrictions if we could provide a fire response vehicle.

Concerned expressed were:

Water will not work to put out a kerosine fire, you need foam or dry chemical.

Are there are other legal requirements during a burn ban.

Fire season has been pretty bad, what if the fire departments were all busy.

By next year the Port will require 2 million dollars worth of insurance, We currently only have 1 million. (I contacted the AMA and was told we have 2.5 million in insurance, so we should be good).

Hunter Farms - Looking good, still a little soft so don't drive into the pits past the burm. The portapotty is leaning and needs repair, the repairs will be made after the move back to Sanderson in the fall. In the mean time it will be propped up level.

No official fly--in this weekend.

WINTER BUILD CHALLENGE

The winter build challenge went very well, Thanks to Jody and Sharon for a great event also thanks to every one who helped.

The weather started out cloudy and cool which was pretty nice considering we didn't have the sun in our eyes, later in the morning the sun came out. The winds were mild. All in all it was another great WBC. Here are some pictures of some of the entries.

JETS OVER SANDERSON

All in all this event went well also however the weather did not cooperate on Sunday. It was a beautiful day but the wind sock was sticking straight out a good share of the time (15 MPH sock). I saw canopies and hats being blown and even a popup blown on top of a trailer.

As it was also an open fly in I took a couple of planes but only flew the foamy P-47 first thing in the morning. There was flying off and on all day.

The turn out was good and there were jets of all kinds from a foamy with a turbine in it to a great big SU 27, a big T 33 shooting star and even a big turbine helicopter and quite a few ducted fan jets. There were also some big 3-d aircraft.

The T 33 flew but the SU 27 didn't.

It was a good day!
